What's inside

- How to use the prompts p.2
- Ten paste-ready prompts p.3
- Your details block p.4

How to use it

1. Fill in your details block once. Paste it at the top of each new chat.
2. Copy a prompt and swap the [square brackets] for real facts.
3. Read the draft out loud and fix anything that doesn't sound like you.
4. Never let the AI make up a price, date or invoice number.

Print it or type into it

Print at 100% on A4, or copy prompts straight from the PDF. Works with ChatGPT, Claude, Gemini or Copilot. Not legal, tax or financial advice: you check and send every draft.

Ten prompts

1. Scope questions

Write a short, friendly email to a new client asking for: what they want delivered, the deadline, their budget range, and who signs the work off. UK English. My work: [what you do].

2. Proposal outline

Write a one-page proposal outline for [client] for [job]. Sections: the outcome, what I'll do, what I need from you, timeline, fee, next step. Use only the facts I give you. Fee: [£ amount].

3. Fixed quote

Turn this scope into a fixed price quote in pounds with two payment options: 50% upfront and 50% on delivery, or 100% on delivery. Scope: [paste]. Price: [£ amount].

4. Invoice wording

Write the wording for a UK freelancer invoice. Not VAT-registered. Fields: my name, client, date, invoice number [number], payment due in 14 days, line items [paste], total, bank details [paste].

5. First reminder

Write a short, friendly reminder for invoice [number] for £[amount], due on [date]. One clear ask. No threats.

6. Second reminder

Write a firmer but still polite second reminder for invoice [number]. Ask for a payment date this week. Offer a quick call if there's a problem.

7. Extra work request

My client has asked for [extra work], which wasn't in the agreed scope. Write a friendly reply offering a separate quote of £[amount] for it, keeping the relationship good.

8. Kick-off message

Write a message to send after the deposit lands: what happens this week, what I need from them by [date], and when they'll next hear from me.

9. Handover email

Write an email handing over the finished work: what's attached, the balance due (£[amount], invoice attached) and how to ask for small changes within five working days.

10. Testimonial request

Ask a happy client for a one or two sentence testimonial. Make it easy: offer two example lines they can edit.

Fill once, paste at the top of each chat.
