Contents

- A. How to use
- B. Proposals from discovery notes
- C. One-page quotes
- D. Invoices + chase ladder
- E. Scope creep replies
- F. Late payers / pause-work
- G. Fill-in context block

A · How to use

Paste Section G first, then one prompt. Never invent rates, dates, or client names. Missing fields stay [PLACEHOLDER]. UK English. You decide what to send.

- Real rates and dates only
- Ask for sendable drafts, not essays
- Sole-trader tone — clear, not corporate
- Not a substitute for accountant or solicitor

B · Proposals

Turn discovery notes into a scoped proposal for a UK freelancer.

Include: summary, scope, options A/B (price bands from FACTS only), exclusions, timeline, next step.

Never invent day rates. UK English.

NOTES:

[PASTE DISCOVERY]

FACTS rates/terms: [PASTE]

Filled: Brand site refresh · Option A £1,800 / Option B £2,400 · exclude photography

C · One-page quote email

Draft a one-page quote email + outline fields for a PDF quote.

Fields: client, project, line items (from facts), VAT note if applicable, payment terms, validity days.
Subject + body. UK English. Facts only.

FACTS:

D1 · Invoice field checklist

Before sending: your name/trade · client · invoice # · date · due date · line items · total · payment details · UTR optional · VAT if registered.

D2 · Chase — polite / firm / final

Sole-trader invoice chase. Facts: Invoice #[NO] · £[AMT] · due [DATE] · days overdue [N] · client [NAME]. Write polite first nudge (subject+body). Then separately: firm second. Then final before escalation (no invented legal threats).

E · Scope creep

Client asked for work outside the agreed scope. Draft:

- 1) Warm “out of scope” reply acknowledging the ask
 - 2) Change-request mini-quote using FACTS rates only
- UK English. Never invent hours.

F · Late payers

Build a chase ladder (email 1/2/3) for overdue invoice. Include optional pause-work wording ONLY if FACTS say work is still open and pause is true.

Do not invent rights you don't have. Facts only.
