UK Ltd AI Admin Prompt Pack

Paste once. Get invoice chase, waiting-on, and meeting actions in UK English.

£37 · Instant PDF · One-off

- A How to use — model-agnostic · facts only
- B Invoice chase — polite · firm · final
- C Waiting-on — notes → table → chase → close
- D Meeting notes → decisions · owners · follow-up
- E Weekly director skim — Monday 20 min
- F PECR-safe email drafts — B2B hygiene
- G Fill-in context block — paste every chat

Not legal, tax, or financial advice. PECR and UK GDPR framing is practical hygiene for B2B email — you remain responsible. Not a substitute for an accountant or solicitor. Original prompts · UK English · 2026-09-17

A. How to use

Set up once (about 10 minutes). Then copy-paste forever. Works with ChatGPT, Claude, Gemini, Copilot, or a local model — you are buying reusable UK wording, not software.

Three rules

- Fill Section G once (company context). Paste it at the top of every new chat.
- Copy one prompt from B–F. Replace every [SQUARE BRACKET] with facts you know. Leave unknowns as UNKNOWN.
- Never invent invoice numbers, amounts, dates, names, VAT figures, or legal claims. If a fact is missing, ask one clarifying question — do not guess.

Before you send

Edit the draft like a human. You are the director; the model is a clerk. Check names, amounts, bank details, and tone.

Tone presets

plain	Default for most B2B
firm	Second chase / missed deadline
warm	Existing relationship
short	Busy recipient — cut to the ask

What this pack is not

- Not a CRM, bookkeeping tool, or subscription SaaS
- Not legal, tax, or debt-collection advice
- Not permission to spam consumer inboxes

B. Invoice chase

Three tones on one ladder: polite → firm → final. Use the same facts block every time. Never invent late fees, interest, or “legal action” unless you truly intend that next step and have named it in the facts.

Shared facts block (paste into B1–B3)

FACTS (use only these – never invent):
Company (sender): [YOUR LTD NAME]
My name / role: [NAME], [ROLE]
Customer: [CUSTOMER LTD OR TRADING NAME]
Invoice number: [INV-XXX]
Net amount: [£] VAT: [£] or n/a Gross: [£]
Issue date: [YYYY-MM-DD] Due date: [YYYY-MM-DD]
Days overdue: [N] (or “not yet due – courtesy”)
Payment details: [sort code / account / link – only if real]
What already happened: [e.g. invoice emailed 1 Sep]

B1 — Polite first chase

You are my UK business admin assistant. Use only the facts below.
Never invent amounts, dates, invoice numbers, or VAT. UK English.
Tone: polite and plain.

[PASTE SHARED FACTS BLOCK]

TASK: Short email (max 120 words) chasing payment.
Output: Subject + body. No threats. One clear ask.
One easy reply option. Sign off with my name and Ltd.

B2 · B3 · B4

B2 — Firm second chase

Same rules as B1. Tone: firm, still professional.
Assume they already had a polite chase.
[PASTE SHARED FACTS] + Date of polite chase: [YYYY-MM-DD]
TASK: Email (max 140 words). State overdue gross + due date once.
Ask for payment date this week or a written reason for delay.
No abuse, no ALL CAPS. Subject + body.

B3 — Final chase before escalation

Same rules. Tone: final notice, factual.
Do not invent late fees or legal consequences we did not specify.
[FACTS] + Prior chase dates: [DATES]
Escalation we will actually do if unpaid: [ONLY if true]
TASK: Email (max 160 words). Clear final ask.
Subject exactly: Final reminder – Invoice [INV-XXX].

B4 — Overdue ladder planner

Turn this invoice list into a chase ladder table.
Columns: Invoice | Customer | Gross £ | Due | Days overdue |
Next action | Suggested tone (polite/firm/final) | Draft due by.
UK English. Do not invent rows. Missing → UNKNOWN.

LIST:
[paste invoice export or notes]

Tone picker

- 1–7 days overdue, first contact → polite (B1)
- 8–21 days, already chased once → firm (B2)
- 22+ days, two prior chases, real next step → final (B3)

Filled example (fake Ltd — learning only)

Northbridge Joinery Ltd → Harbour Retail Ltd · INV-1042
£1,200 + VAT £240 = £1,440 · due 31 Aug 2026 · 17 days overdue
Sample subject: Invoice INV-1042 — friendly payment reminder

C. Waiting-on tracker

Turn messy notes into a chase table, one email, and a clean close. Never invent people or dates.

C1 — Messy notes → chase table

Extract a waiting-on table from my rough notes.
Columns: Item | Who we wait on | Since | Why it matters |
Next chase date | Channel | Owner (me/them).
Never invent people or dates. Unknowns → UNKNOWN. UK English.

NOTES:
[paste messy bullets, WhatsApps, sticky notes]

C2 — One chase email from a row

Draft a B2B chase email for this waiting-on row.
Warm but short. Max 100 words. UK English. Facts only.
Identify my Ltd. One clear ask. One easy reply.

ROW: [paste one table row]
My context: [paste Section G]

C3 — Close the loop

Mark each row: OPEN / CHASE / DONE.
For each DONE item, one short close-the-loop sentence.
Do not invent updates. UK English.

LIST: [paste] TODAY'S UPDATES: [paste]

C4 · Worked mock

C4 — Sunday waiting-on sweep

From this waiting-on table, produce a 2-minute Sunday sweep:

- 1) Items with chase date $\leq$ today (move to top)
- 2) Ghosts with no chase date (ask me for one)
- 3) Items safe to close
- 4) One hard chase for Monday (single item only)

Facts only. UK English.

Filled mock table (fake names)

Item	Who	Next chase	Owner
Contract redlines	Acme Legal	18 Sep	them
VAT reclaim receipt	Bookkeeper	17 Sep	them
Website copy sign-off	Blue Oak Ltd	16 Sep	them

Tip: set the next chase date before you put the phone down. Ghosts without a date stay in your head forever.

D. Meeting notes → actions

Rough notes in → decisions, owners, deadlines, and one PECR-safe follow-up email out.

D1 — Notes → decisions, owners, deadlines

Convert these rough meeting notes into:

- 1) Decisions (bullets)
 - 2) Actions table: Action | Owner | Deadline | Blocked by
 - 3) Open questions
- UK English. Never invent owners or deadlines – UNKNOWN if missing.
Flag anything that sounds like legal/tax advice for human review.

NOTES: [paste] Attendees: [] Date: [YYYY-MM-DD]

D2 — PECR-safe follow-up email

Write one follow-up email to attendees summarising decisions and actions.
B2B. Max 180 words. No marketing pitch. No bought-list language.
UK English. Facts only from the structured output below.
Subject + body. Sign off with my name and Ltd.

STRUCTURED NOTES: [paste D1 output]
From: [NAME], [ROLE], [LTD]

D3 · D4

D3 — Board / investor skim

Compress the meeting into 5 bullets (60-second read):
1) Outcome 2) Money 3) Risk 4) Decision needed 5) Next date
No fluff. Facts only. Missing money figures → NEED INPUT.

D4 — Action chase mid-week

From this actions table, list only items due within 7 days.
For each: one-line status question I can send the owner.
Do not invent progress. UK English.

ACTIONS: [paste] Today: [YYYY-MM-DD]

Director habit

- Run D1 before you leave the meeting room (or the call).
- Send D2 the same day — stale notes become fiction.
- Use D4 on Wednesday; do not wait for Friday panic.

E. Weekly director skim

Monday 20 minutes. Friday shutdown. Cash, invoices, waiting-on, calendar, one must-decide.

E1 — Monday 20-minute skim

You are my UK Ltd weekly ops clerk. Using ONLY the pasted facts:

- 1) Cash pulse (one short paragraph – only if figures given)
 - 2) Invoices: overdue / due this week / to raise
 - 3) Waiting-on (top 5 by urgency)
 - 4) Calendar must-not-miss (this week)
 - 5) One MUST DECIDE this week (single question)
 - 6) Suggested 3 admin blocks (25 min each) with a clear stop
- Missing data → NEED INPUT. Never invent numbers. UK English.

FACTS: [bank / invoices / waiting-on / calendar]

Week commencing: [YYYY-MM-DD] Ltd: [NAME]

How to run it in 20 minutes

0–5 min Paste facts (exports + waiting-on + calendar)

5–12 min Run E1 · skim the MUST DECIDE

12–20 min Schedule three 25-min blocks · send one chase if needed

E2 · E3

E2 — Friday shutdown

From this week's notes, list under four headings only:

- 1) Finished
- 2) Still open
- 3) Park until Monday
- 4) Hand to bookkeeper / accountant (facts only – not advice)

Max one page. UK English. Do not invent completions.

WEEK NOTES: [paste]

E3 — Filing reminder table (optional hygiene)

I will paste dates I already know. Build a reminder table:

Filing	Due date	Owner	Status	Next action
--------	----------	-------	--------	-------------

Do not invent due dates or Companies House rules.
Missing date → NEED INPUT. Not legal or filing advice.

KNOWN DATES: [confirmation statement / accounts / VAT – only if supplied]

One MUST DECIDE beats a list of ten maybes. If E1 invents a cash figure, delete it and write NEED INPUT yourself.

F. PECR-safe email drafts

Hygiene (read once): Prefer corporate addresses about relevant products or services. Identify your Ltd. Include: "If you'd rather not hear from us, reply STOP." Do not scrape bought consumer lists. When unsure, ask your solicitor — this is practical hygiene, not legal advice.

F1 — Warm B2B (existing relationship)

Draft a short B2B email to an existing contact. Not a cold blast.
Max 110 words. UK English. Clear reason we already know them.
Optional light CTA to book a call – no fake scarcity.
Identify my Ltd. Add: reply STOP to opt out.
Never invent a prior meeting or purchase.

FACTS: [relationship + reason + offer/update + Ltd + name]

F2 — Cold B2B (careful)

First-touch B2B email. Max 90 words. Plain UK English.
One value sentence, one proof (ONLY if I provide proof), one ask.
Identify sender Ltd. Include STOP reply line.
No fake personalisation. If targeting looks consumer/PECR-risky, say so instead of drafting.

FACTS: [their company + why relevant + offer + proof + my Ltd]

F3 · F4 · F5

F3 — Existing customer service reply

Reply to this customer email. Tone: calm, accountable. UK English.
No blame-shifting. One clear next step. Timeline ONLY if I provide one.
Never invent refund policy, legal rights, or compensation.

CUSTOMER EMAIL: [paste]
POLICY / FACTS WE CAN USE: [paste]
My name / Ltd: [paste]

F4 — Subject lines (non-spammy)

Propose 8 subject lines for the email below.
No ALL CAPS. No fake Re:/Fwd:. No "ACT NOW" or emoji spam.
UK English. Rank 1-8 by clarity for a busy director.

EMAIL BODY: [paste]

F5 — STOP acknowledgement

Short acknowledgement when someone replies STOP.
Max 40 words. Confirm we will not email them about this topic again.
No guilt, no "are you sure?", no further offer. UK English.

THEIR MESSAGE: [paste] My Ltd: [paste]

G. Fill-in context block

Copy once. Keep in Notes or a pinned doc. Paste at the top of every new chat before any prompt from B–F.

CONTEXT – FACTS ONLY (do not invent beyond this block):

Trading name: []
Legal entity: [] Ltd
Companies House number (optional): []
My name: []
Role: [Director / Ops / Finance / ...]
Sector: []
Usual tone: [plain / firm / warm / short]
VAT registered: [yes / no]
Currency: GBP
Markets: UK B2B [/ also ...]
Things we never claim: [e.g. regulated advice]
Preferred sign-off: []
Bank / payment line for invoices (if needed): []
Website: []
Other standing facts: []

Tip: if the model invents a detail, reply: “Strike that — not in CONTEXT. Ask me instead.”
